	I envy people who know exactly what they want to do after high school! While many students have their minds made up from the time they start kindergarten, I still struggle with this looming decision. It all comes down to what I want out of a college. If I chose to become an engineer like my father, I will attend Georgia Tech, one of the best engineering schools in the country. If I wished to pursue a job in communication or marketing, maybe I will go to the University of Georgia, which is best-known for its journalism and business schools. If I wanted an opportunity to be more independent from my parents, I will opt for a college that is in a different state. No matter which college I choose, I know that a college degree will help me achieve any goal I set
